

A MAGAZINE BY CITY A.M.

LIVING

ISSUE 15 | NOVEMBER 2017

INSIDE WE GO INSIDE THE
NEW TELEVISION CENTRE
THE WORLD'S MOST AMAZING SKI CHALET
THE STORIES BEHIND
LONDON'S BLUE PLAQUES
+ HEAPS OF PROPERTY PORN

INTERIORS: WHERE TO GET THE BEST HOME DECOR IN TOWN
ARCHITECTURE: WHY SAO PAULO IS THE WORLD'S BEST KEPT DESIGN SECRET

I WANT THAT

From wallpaper to fancy candles, we've got you covered

TANCHO CRANE PRINT WALLPAPER
£244/SQM, GEORGESPENCER.COM

Peel back the wallpaper in any Victorian or Georgian house and you'll reveal layer upon layer of garish, patterned wallpaper. The minimalist aesthetic that swept interior design from the 1990s onwards seemed to consign this trend to the scrap-heap of history, with a sea of magnolia and gleaming white the palette of choice for urbanistas. But that's been slowly changing for years now, and this gorgeous Japanese crane-print wallpaper from George Spencer Designs shows why. It's fun and playful without crossing over into gimmicky, while its slightly mottled texture will fit into any room and age wonderfully.